GLASGOW,

AND ITS ENVIRONS,

WITH THE BURGHS OF CROSSHILL, GOVAN, HILLHEAD, KINNING PARK, MARYHILL, AND PARTICK, AND VILLAGES OF PARKHEAD, SHETTLESTON, SPRINGBACK, SPRINGBURN AND TOLLCROSS.

THE City of Glasgow, like many other important places, has no authentic record concerning the date of its origin, or the etymology of its name. There is, however, sufficient reason for believing that the Scottish western metropolis was a place of considerable importance during the time that the Romans retained their acquisitions in Scotland; the name Glasgow is admitted to be Gaelic, but the interpretations of its meaning are both varied and discordant. Little doubt of its existence as a Scottish town is traceable to the foundation of that religious society out which the venerable cathedral took its rise. Its present magnitude, beauty, extensive manufactures, and commerce sufficiently indicate the early vitality and energy of its inhabitants. In point of commercial greatness and population, Glasgow may be reckoned the second city in the empire; it is in the county of Lanark, situated on the banks of the Clyde; 397 miles from London, 44 from Edinburgh, 187 from Aberdeen, 34 from Ayr, 29 from Stirling, 218 from Manchester, the same distance from Liverpool, 95 from Carlisle, 196 from Dublin, and 127 from Belfast. This distinguished city, in addition to its other claims on our regard, is entitled to respect for its venerable age; more than 1,300 years it has already numbered, and, unlike the myriads of sons and daughters to whom it has given birth, its beauty and vigour have augmented with its age. St. Kentigern, or Mungo, was the reputed parent, who founded a bishopric upon the site of the future city, in the year 560; the tomb of this saint is still shown in the cathedral. John Achaius, who had been invested with the crozier about the year 1124, erected the present cathedral, which was consecrated in 1133. Some years after this, William the Lion elevated the rising town to the rank of a royal burgh, with the privilege of an eight days' fair and a weekly market. In 1268 the mace was borne before a provost and bailies, and a seal was allowed them distinct from that of the bishop and chapter. In 1345 Stockwell Street Bridge was built, at the joint expense of Bishop Rae and Lady Lochow. Prior to this period the principal street was Drygate; some small tenements near the head of this street once formed part of the town mansion of the noble family of Montrose; Rotten row was then also one of the chief streets. In 1450 the city and barony of Glasgow were raised by James II., at the supplication of Bishop Turnbull, into a regality; in consequence of this proceeding, the bishops therefore obtained the nomination of the civil authorities. Bishop Turnbull, next year induced Pope Nicholas V. to issue a bull for the erection of a university; Rotten row was the original site, but eight years afterwards Lord Hamilton bequeathed a tenement and four acres of land, on the north side of Blackfriars church, where the college was situated till three years ago. Since then the Glasgow University has been transferred to Gilmorehill. The most of the old college buildings have, however, been retained by the Union Railway, into whose hands they have passed for the purpose of being converted into a passenger and goods station. The front towards High street, with one or two other interesting portions of the ancient structure, is still to be seen, but the classic building, which stood behind, known as the Hunterian Museum, has been completely removed. In 1484 the Tron church was built; this edifice was destroyed by fire in 1793. It was soon after rebuilt. The endowment of the University contributed essentially to the enlargement of the town; yet, several years subsequently, the inhabitants did not exceed 1,500 in number; the majority resided in the neighbourhood of the cathedral, and about the precincts of the Bishop's palace; but as the population increased, the habitations gradually extended towards the Cross. On the formation of the society of fishers, the Saltmarket soon gave convenient access to the Clyde; this humble community built Bridgegate (then called Fishergate), and appears to have been the first commercial company established in the city—fish, chiefly salmon, then being the staple of its trade. In 1527 the streets of Glasgow were stained with the blood of two martyrs to the principles of the Reformation, Jeremiah Russell and John Kennedy, the latter a youth of eighteen years of age; their deaths rather accelerated than retarded the progress of the opinions they had avowed. Forty-five years after that event, the High Church was opened as a Presbyterian place of worship; but in 1662 episcopacy being restored and enforced by the bayonet, the persecutions of the Presbyterians became as fierce as when impelled by the intolerance of popery; and an inscription on a fine monument beyond the infirmary records the names of three of its victims—James Nisbet, James Lawson, and Alexander Wood, who, in 1684, "were martyred for their adherence to the Word of God and Scotland's covenanted reformation." It may be remarked that this monument has been renewed three times. The present one was erected and unveiled with great ceremony about twelve years ago. These sanguinary efforts to establish prelacy continued, with more or less violence, until the happy revolution gave permanence to the presbytery. In 1638 was made the first purchase of land for the formation of a public green; but it was not till 1773 that the entire plot (described elsewhere) became the property of the city. During the rebellion of 1715, the citizens of Glasgow displayed great zeal in the cause of the reigning family; they despatched six hundred men, at their own expense, to join the royal army; and a ditch round the town, twelve feet broad and six feet deep, was commenced, but the speedy overthrow of the Stuart faction dispensed with the necessity of its completion. In 1763, James Watt, who was educated in Glasgow, withdrew to a private room near the Broomielaw, and during his seclusion, with a single assistant, commenced these experiments that issued in such momentous results. Forty-nine years afterwards, the unpatronised Henry Bell, of Helensburgh, launched his little "Comet" on the Clyde—the first steamboat which plied on any water, and proved its independence of wind and tide. The 12th of March, 1782, was memorable for the extraordinary height of the tide; the Clyde rose upwards of twenty feet above its usual mark, and completely insulated the village of Gorbals.

In 1787, a strike occurred amongst the weavers against a reduction of wages. The men cut the webs from their looms and burned them in the streets. So serious did the riot grow, that the military were called out and the people were fired upon, several persons being killed and wounded. It affords an instructive glimpse relative to the distribution of the population in those days to read that the now deserted Drygate, was the scene of the disturbance. Those killed were buried in what was then the suburb of Calton, six thousand people attending the funeral. In the wars which which were waged against the revolutionary leaders of France, and their successor, Napoleon I., from 1791 to 1815, Glasgow displayed her loyalty in a conspicuous manner. Her citizens mustered as volunteers in great force, with the view of repelling the anticipated invasion. Sir John Moore, who fell at Corunna, was a native of the city. In 1819-20 the distress and discontent which pervaded the country were largely felt in the district. A body of half-famished weavers, to whom political objects were ascribed, having assembled in force at Bonnymuir, near Kilsyth, were dispersed by the yeomanry. The incident is memorable as having occasioned the last executions that have taken place in Scotland for a political offence. James Wilson, a weaver from Strathaven, was convicted (on insufficient evidence it is now believed) of having taken a leading part in the movement. He was first hanged and then beheaded. Hardie and Baird were similarly dealt with at Stirling; their monument is in the Sighthill Necropolis, Glasgow. The passing of the Municipal Reform Act gave here, as elsewhere, a great impulse to the general interest in public matters, and the benefits derived from it were vastly enhanced twenty-eight years ago, by obtaining parliamentary sanction to an act extending the municipal boundaries. Formerly, Glasgow proper stood surrounded by the adjacent burghs of Calton, Gorbals, Anderston, &c.—much as the city of London does—a mere speck in the centre of what was to all intents and purposes, except in the matters of government and administration, one city. Now the whole are embraced.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF GLASGOW AND ITS INSTITUTIONS.

The river Clyde divides the city into two unequal part, that portion occupying the northern bank being the chief: this comprehends the old and new towns, with the districts of Calton, Bridgeton, Anderston, Brownfield, and Finnieston; the division on the opposite side of the river consists of the barony of Gorbals, including Hutchesontown, Laurieston, Tradeston, and Kingston. The communications between these two divisions of the city is by five bridges, two of which are of stone, one of iron, while two are suspension bridges; that at the end of Jamaica street, called Glasgow Bridge, is conspicuously elegant; it consists of of seven arches, and the curvature is so very trifling that the transit by it is attended with no inconvenience. The noble quays extend from this bridge in a westerly direction, affording altogether 19,242 lineal feet of quay wall; and it is here that the vessels by which this part of the river is crowded discharge and take in their cargoes. Included in the extent of quay wall just mentioned, is Kingston Dock, the area of which is 5½ acres. What was known as the Stobcross Dock, but which now has received the name of the Queen's Dock, the works for which were projected in 1872 and are the most extensive in Scotland, was opened on the 19th September, 1877. The dock will cover an area of 33 acres. Its length will be 3,000 feet, breadth 700, and average depth 20. It is anticipated that it will take three years to complete the works, the entire cost of which will be about £1,600,000. This section is the most important, including as it does the entrance and swing bridge. The basin will be connected by means of a branch from Maryhill with the whole railway system of the kingdom. Commodious sheds range along the greater part of the line; and (owing to the admirable regulations established, and the commanding width of the line), notwithstanding the prodigious amount of business transacted, the operations of the port are accomplished without confusion or noise, and with surprising celerity. On the 9th of April, 1851, the foundation stone of the Victoria Bridge was laid by the Duke of Athole, and a gorgeous municipal and masonic procession gave eclat to this memorable event. An iron bridge has been substituted for the Hutchesontown Bridge, which spanned the Clyde at the foot of the Saltmarket. The new structure has, in order to do honour to the memory of the late Prince Consort, been named the Albert Bridge. The foundation stone was laid with great ceremony on the 3rd June, 1870, by the Earl of Dalhousie, the then Grand Master Mason of Scotland. But two years prior to that period the operation of placing the granite pillars upon which the bridge rested was carried on, so that the most formidable part of the undertaking had been got over when the foundation stone was laid. The bridge was opened without any ceremony on the 21st June, 1871. It is nearly level with the roadway, and spans the river in three arches, and in structural and ornamental design is extremely elegant. The outside painting is in green and gold, and medallions are shown upon the bridge of the Queen and Prince Consort. The cost of this superb structure and its adjuncts approach only £65,000. The engineers were Messrs. Bell and Miller, Glasgow. The suspension bridge, between Glasgow Bridge and the Victoria Bridge, for foot passengers, gracefully diversifies the pontine communications between the north and south sections of the city; it is one of the finest bridges in Europe, with a span of 420 feet; the chains rest on handsome piers, with columns of the Grecian Ionic character in cast iron. The river, between the opposite quays, has not only been widened, but is progressively being deepened through the instrumentality of dredging machines, so that ships of upwards of 1,000 tons burthen now discharge at the Broomielaw. The mud raised by the machines is conveyed down the Clyde in flats, and spread where the shore is low and swampy, by which process the banks of the river are raised, and a rich soil is deposited. A diving bell is also employed, as an assistant in the dredging operations.

The main line of street, running east and west, is nearly two miles in length and eighty feet wide, assuming at different points the names of Gallowgate, Trongate, and Argyle street. Noble houses and handsome shops, with few exceptions, range on both sides throughout the entire line. The street which runs from north to south is about a mile in length and fifty feet broad, bearing successively the names of Castle street, Kirk street, High street and the far-famed Saltmarket, anciently the abiding place of Bailie Nicol Jarvie, and "mony mair bailies." The point of intersection of these two lines is called the Cross, and was at one time, before the population had progressed westward, the nucleus of the city. Here stands the Town Hall, in which the Corporation for many years held their meetings. It is no longer used for that purpose, the Town Council assembling in an elegant hall forming part of the County buildings, which, extending from Wilson street to Ingram street, cover a large space of ground. Opposite the old Town Hall is an equestrian statue of William III., presented to the city in 1736 by James M'Crea, Esq., then Governor of Madras, and a native of Glasgow. Parallel with Argyle street, towards the north, are three other splendid streets, named Ingram street, St. Vincent street, and George street, crossed by others of uniform elegance. But Buchanan street, which passes in a northern direction from Argyle street, opposite St. Enoch square, to the station of the Caledonian railway, is the handsomest business street in the city. Parallel with this is Queen street. Sauchiehall street, which runs from Buchanan street westward nearly a mile, ranks amongst the fine ststreets in the city. The shops on its southern side are very handsome and attractively stored. The architectural taste displayed in the western section of the city is of the first order, and to it, the two fine squares, George and Blythswood, along with the handsome streets and crescents that have lately sprung up beyond them, add a graceful magnificence. Park Gardens, Quadrant, and Circus, the Claremont Gardens, and Woodside terrace, all challenge admiration, by their spacious and handsome appearance. The houses are all of stone, and the construction and arrangement of the streets impart to this vicinity a resemblance to a portion of Bath. In George square are magnificent equestrian statues of the Queen and the late Prince Consort, which occupy corresponding positions inside the quadrangle. A tall pillar, surmounted by a statue of Sir Walter Scott, rises betweed them, while figures of Sir John Moore, Lord Clyde, Sir Robert Peel, the late Thomas Graham (Master of the Mint, and a native of Glasgow), and James Watt, also adorn the square. The last affords an exquisitely graceful and happy example of the sculptor's art. Burns' Monument, recently erected by public subscription of not more than one shilling from each person, and which amounted in three months to £2,000, was inaugurated, amid a grand public demonstration, on the anniversary of Burns' birth-day. The pedestal consists of grey granite, and has bronze bas-reliefs on its panels contributed by towns in the west of Scotland, and forming illustrations of Burns' works; the statue is nine feet high, and represents Burns in the garb of a small farmer of his time, grasping a Kilmarnock bonnet, standing against the stump of a tree, and musing over a daisy. Two other monuments have a position in George square—Dr. Livingstone and the poet Campbell—and were erected in 1877, each comprising a standing bronze statue by John Mossman, and a granite pedestal. Dr. Livingstone's statue represents him in simple rough travelling costume, standing by the stump of a palm tree, holding a bible, and seemingly in the act of speaking; and Campbell's represents him in the costume of the latter part of George IV's reign, holding a scroll, and appearing to be about to write. The old town lies to the east of the Trongate, extending to the Clyde on the south, and to the Cathedral on the north. The Argyle arcade runs from Argyle street to Buchanan street, and contains attractive shops, covered in by a lofty roof of glass. There is a second arcade in Sauchiehall street, called the Wellington; and the Bazaar (the Covent Garden of Glasgow) i situated in Candlerigg street.

Conspicuous amidst the throng of elegant buildings which adorn the city are the banking establishments, many of which are architecturally beautiful, and all are proud testimonials to the commercial enterprise of this port, of which they are representatives. Among them we may mention the Bank of Scotland, erected in 1867, in the ornamental Italian style, and having over its St. Vincent place entrance a ponderous entablature resting on noble cattle caryatides, from the chisel of William Mossman. The Union Bank, in Ingram street, having undergone extensive alterations, now presents a fine appearance, being ornamentally one of the richest in the city. The building is in the Italian style, with a frontage of 106 feet to the above named street. To a height of six feet from the pavement the outer surface of the masonry is of polished Aberdeen granite, varying from twelve to sixteen inches in thickness. Surmounting the main entrance is a massive open pediment, embellished with carved work, in the centre of which is raised a sculptural group, representing the figures, shield and coat of arms engraved on the notes issued by this bank. The building, of which Mr. Burnet, of Glasgow, was the architect, is estimated to have cost over £80,000. Some of the warehouses and offices of recent erection are also large and imposing buildings; notably so are the immense wholesale warehouses of Messrs. J. & W. Campbelll & Co., and a superb range of offices, known as Victoria buildings, in West Regent street; either of these piles, if advantageously situated, would have a commanding effect. The Royal Exchange is also a very handsome structure. It stands in Queen street. The principal entrance is by a grand portico of twelve fluted Corinthian pillars, thirty feet high. After passing through a tasteful vestibule, the visitor enters the great reading room, which is 120 feet long and 62 feet wide; the lofty roof is supported by a double row of columns nineteen feet high, each composed of a single stone. A dome, supported by twelve Corinthian pillars, surmounts the building. The great room is supplied with all the leading newspapers, and strangers are courteously allowed the privileges of the room upon subscribing their names. In front stands the equestrian statue of the Duke of Wellington, unsurpassed for grace of style and truthfulness of expression. The numerous apartments above and below the Exchange are appropriated to various commercial purposes. The new Stock Exchange, in Buchanan street, which was opened in 1877, is in the early French Gothic style of architecture, three storeys in height, and has a highly ornamental and striking appearance. The buildings, of which Mr. Burnet was the architect, have cost upwards of £50,000. The municipal buildings in Wilson street form a splendid group of Grecian architecture; in front is an Ionic portico, chastely proportioned; the facade is handsome, stately and imposing. Internally, it contains a council hall (in which the municipal body hold their meetings), splendidly decorated; there are also the fiscal's chamber, the council record chamber, and other public offices, all elegantly fitted up and beautiful. The Merchants' House — one of the wealthiest corporations in Glasgow—erected in 1874-7, is in the massive highly ornamental style, having at its north-east corner a tower 122 ft. high, and presents a frontage of 98 ft. to George square and 96 ft. to George street. The Chamber of Commerce occupies a portion of the building. The Trades Hall, in Glassford street, is a very handsome building; the front consists of a centre and wings, supported by a rustic basement four Doric columns above support the entablature, and a dome, surmounted by a lantern, rises from the roof. The hall, one of the finest rooms in the city, is seventy feet long, thirty-five broad, and twenty-four high, exclusive of the dome. On the walls and staircase are hung portraits of persons of the trades' rank that have conferred donations on the House, and also tablets recording the names of the conveners from 1605 to the present time. The City Hall, in Candlerigg street, is a very spacious and handsome building, in which public meetings are commonly held. In Hope street stands the Corn Exchange, a spacious and handsome structure, with a portico, sustained by Corinthian fluted columns; the interior is fitted up in complete adaptation to the peculiar transactions of this important market, held every Wednesday. There are several corn mills in and around Glasgow, upon a scale of great magnitude.

At the back of the Cathedral is a rocky eminence called the Merchants' Park, upon the summit of which, on a fluted Doric column, fifty-eight feet high, is placed a colossal statue of the illustrious Scottish reformer, John Knox; appropriate inscriptions are sculptured on the four sides of the pedestal. This proud monument, so attractive from its position and magnitude, was raised in the year 1825. Contiguous to this is another, similar in character but of inferior dimensions, erected more recently, to the memory of M'Gavin, the formidable opponent of popery, and author of "The Protestant." The statue of Knox is 250 feet above the level of the Clyde, and is a conspicuous object at a great distance; the artist was Mr. Forrest, of Lanark; the likeness was taken from an original painting in the Glasgow University. The surrounding grounds have been tastefully planted and formed into a cemetery, named the "Necropolis," and the stranger will be highly gratified by a visit to this interesting spot. The view from the summit of the hill is pleasing and commanding, access to it being obtained by a handsome bridge.

A monument of Lord Nelson, on Glasgow green, is a simple obelisk, 143 feet in height, surrounded by a protecting railing; the four sides of the pedestal record the birth, achievements, and death of this naval hero; and the fact of this being the first memorial sculptured to his memory, impresses a high idea of the public spirit of the citizens. The Green, of which it is so conspicuous an ornament, is Glasgow's pride; neither encroachment or injury can be committed upon it with impunity; its motto is the same as that of the national thistle,—"Nemo me impune lacessit." This delightful promenade, from its extent, its verdure, and its plantations, may be denominated a park; the Clyde washes its southern margin; the prospect towards the south-east is beautiful and extensive—woods and villas in the foreground, and the hill of Dychmont, with the loftier and more distant one of Tinto, in the distance. Here, during the summer months, may be witnessed the games of cricket and football, and then is the Green animated by military evolutions. Besides the Green, three other large and beautifully laid-out parks have been acquired through the wise liberality of the Corporation. One, in the west-end, comprises sixty-two acres, and is named the Kelvingrove Park; Sir Joseph Paxton furnished the design for its ornamentation. On its purchase and adornment a sum of £89,000 has been expended. The other, to the south of the city, is named the Queen's Park. It at present extends to 142 acres; but it is intended to dispose of a considerable part of it for building purposes. Its cost has been about £60,000. It was also laid out by Sir Joseph Paxton. The fourth and most recently acquired park is the Alexandra or North-Eastern Park, in extent eighty-five acres. It has been acquired and laid out at a cost of £40,000. Glasgow can now boast of having a park in each of the four quarters of the city.

No stranger can perambulate Glasgow without noticing its admirable pavement. The material being granite, of almost indestructible hardness, Glasgow may be deemed one of the best paved cities in Europe. The whole extent of the thoroughfares within the city, apart from mere lanes, alleys, &c. is about 120 miles. A sum of £33,000 is expended annually upon paving these streets and keeping them in repair. The city is plentifully supplied with good and cheap gas by the Corporation, which has the most extensive works to be found anywhere. The same body also supplies to the city and adjoining burghs water of remarkable excellence. It is derived from Loch Katrine, a Highland lake, thirty four miles distant. The great work by which this is accomplished was begun in 1856, under the superintendence of Mr. Bateman, C.E. and completed three years afterwards. It was a formidable undertaking. The engineering difficulties were very considerable. The aqueduct from the lake to a service reservoir, constructed eight miles out of town, is twenty-six miles long. For the half of that distance the water is conveyed through tunnels. Four miles consist of iron piping carried across valleys, while for the rest there are open cuttings and bridges. The cost of the aqueduct averaged £18,000 per mile. The total cost of the work rather exceeds one million and a half; but this immense outlay has been well bestowed. It has placed Glasgow, in relation to her water supply, alike as regards quantity, quality, and price, far ahead of all the large towns in the kingdom. Over thirty-two millions of gallons are brought into the town daily, or at the rate of fifty gallons per head of the population—an amount more than double that which could be obtained thirty years ago, and one that might be doubled again did necessity arise. Its purity has been attested, by frequent chemical analyses, to be very remarkable. The works are constructed to supply 50,000,000 gallons daily. Taking into account the 4,000,000 obtained from the Gorbals works, also belonging to the Corporation, the total supply to be obtained when required is 54,000,000. But no adequate idea would be obtained of the enterprise of the municipality of Glasgow if notice were not taken of the City Improvement Trust. This Trust was created in 1866, having for its object the purchase of buildings (especially old buildings), taking them down, opening up new streets in densely and ill-built localities, and in great part reconstructing the older portions of the city. A tax was imposed to enable the trustees to carry out their operations. Already they have acquired property to the extent of £1,100,000, and now the work of reconstruction has begun in earnest. There is little doubt that in the course of a few years Glasgow will be one of the finest cities in the Empire.

COMMERCE, TRADE, AND MANUFACTURES.

Fishing was the earliest branch of productive industry established in Glasgow. Cured salmon was exported in large quantities to France, and different French productions were taken in exchange. In 1667 a whale fishing company was formed, and a soap manufactory was established. The commercial prosperity of this city may be dated from its embarkation in the Virginian tobacco trade.

The commerce of Glasgow was at first carried on in vessels chartered from English ports; although it is on record that this city was in possession of shipping prior to the year 1546, and in the reign of Charles II., the "Leon" privateer was equipped here for a cruise against the Dutch. It was not until the year 1718, however, that a ship built on the Clyde, the property of Glasgow citizens, crossed the Atlantic. At that time a good supply of tobacco was brought to this market, and the merchants were enabled to dispose of that article upon more advantageous terms than those of London and other commercial towns in England, which produced great animosity between those parties. The English tobacco merchants charged those of Glasgow with frauds on the revenue. An enquiry was eventually made before parliament, when a number of restrictions were imposed on the trade, which caused it to decline in Glasgow till the year 1735; it then began to revive, and at length attained such a degree of prosperity that, for several years previous to the American revolutionary war, the annual imports of tobacco into the Clyde were from 35,000 to 45,000 hogsheads; in the year immediately preceding that disastrous war, 57,143 hogsheads were imported; from 1,200 to 1,300 hogsheads, only, of the annual imports, were sold for home consumption; indeed this trade, at that period, engrossed nearly the whole available capital and commercial enterprise of Glasgow.

The following figures as to the state of this trade for some years back will be read with interest. In 1867 there was duty paid on the Clyde on 2,249,307lbs; in 1868, on 2,409,550lbs; in 1869, on 2,459,333lbs; in 1870, on 2,487,955lbs; in 1871, on 2,741,424lbs; in 1872, on 2,692,456lbs; in 1873, on 2,768,331lbs; in 1874, on 2,831,819lbs; in 1875, on 2,750,646lbs; and in 1876, on 3,066,326lbs.

As regards tea, the figures stand thus:—1867, 6,149,902lbs; 1868, 5,836,524lbs; 1869, 6,313,754lbs; 1870, 6,626,442lbs; 1871, 6,937,526lbs; 1872, 6,765,590lbs; 1873, 7,041,991lbs; 1874, 6,971,287lbs; 1875, 7,206,503lbs; 1876, 6,957,559lbs. The customs duties collected in Glasgow also give an idea of its enterprise. In 1868 they amounted to £1,352,246; 1869, £1,185,753; 1870, £963,534; 1871, £999,572; 1873, £1,056,301; 1874, £972,792; 1875, £960,854; 1876, £1,022,825. The total custom house duties collected in Glasgow amounted in 1874 to £840,384, and in 1875 to £850,221. The excise duties collected in 1871 in Glasgow (exclusive of the large sums received for income and property tax, house duty, &c.) were £1,027,111 19s. 1½d. The inland revenue of Scotland in 1871 was £4,880,973; of this it has been computed Glasgow contributed one-half. The rental of the city of Glasgow, including that portion of the ancient royalty outside the parliamentary burgh, as prepared by the assessor under the Lands Valuation Act, was in 1855-6 £1,362,168. In 1865-6 it had increased to £1,808,430, and in 1876-7 it amounted to £3,096,847, making a total increase in 21 years of £1,734,679.

The merchants and manufacturers of Glasgow, compelled to turn their attention to other objects when their favourite intercourse with America was interrupted by the war in 1775, began more generally to speculate upon the establishment of manufactures. The introduction of the muslin trade was the result, and it was prosecuted by men of capital with the greatest spirit and success. Early in the present century, the high price paid for the embroidery of muslins enabled thousands of young women in Ayrshire to earn a comfortable living by what is still termed "Ayrshire needle work." Later, this industry was extended to the north of Ireland, and Belfast competitors became rivals for their employment. Still Glasgow remains the chief seat and mart of the manufacture. It was computed that in 1857 the sales of this production had a value of a million and a half. In that year one of the largest firms in the trade failed for a larger sum than had ever before been involved in any trade bankruptcy in Glasgow. The trade thus received a check, from which it has not yet wholly recovered. But its progress has been upwards, in the direction of renewed prosperity.

From the introduction of power-loom weaving in 1773, or more correctly, from the application of steam power to cotton spinning in 1792, the cotton trade and manufactures in Glasgow largely helped to increase its wealth, and advanced it to greatness. Almost all varieties of textile manufactures are here carried on, more or less. Many of the mills, however, are situated outside the city, and it is well nigh impossible to procure correct information as to the number of hands who are employed.

The iron trade has grown to be one of the staple trades of Glasgow. The city has in relation to it very great advantages from its close proximity to the iron fields of the north. In its immediate vicinity there were last year 136 iron furnaces in blast, producing upwards of three thousand tons of pig iron daily. The Glasgow Exchange is the scene of sale for this vast manufacture, and the Clyde ports are those of shipment. We give the amount of production and shipment for the ten years ending in 1871:—

	MAKE.	SHIPMENT.
1861	1,040,000	599,000
1862	1,080,000	565,000

In ship building, Glasgow deservedly holds a high position. Its building yards are both numerous and extensive, and the vessels constructed here, whether of timber or iron, have attained to a wide spread celebrity. Specimens of them navigate every sea. In 1871, no fewer than 200 vessels, almost without exception constructed of iron, and possessing an aggregate burthen of 196,229 tons were launched within the limits bounded by Rutherglen at the one extremity, and Greenock at the other. The aggregate tonnage launched within these limits during the nine years ending 1871, represented the enormous amount of 1,447,485, or nearly a million and a half of tons. The figures are as follow:—Amount of new tonnage in 1863, 124,000; 1864, 175,505; 1865, 153,932; 1866, 124,513; 1867, 108,024; 1868, 169,571; 1869, 192,310; 1870, 180,401; 1871, 196,229; 1872, 230,347; 1873, 232,926; 1874, 262,430; 1875, 211,482; 1876, 174,824. In the latter year the amount of tonnage on the stocks or under contract on the 31st December was 161,441.

The merchants import to a large amount, sugars, rum, wines, brandy, timber, coffee, cotton, flour, &c., and numberless other productions of the western world, particularly from Demerara, the Caraccas, Buenos Ayres, the United States, Canada, Nova Scotia, &c. Their commercial transactions likewise extend to the coasts of Asia and Africa, and are of considerable consequence in many of the ports of Europe. Their exportations comprise muslins, shawls, and every description of cotton goods, silks, glass, soap, whiskey, and various manufactures of the neighbouring town of Paisley, as well as the products of the adjacent districts.

Of course the Clyde is the great highway for mercantile traffic. The following statement of the number and tonnage of shipping arrivals (steam vessels and sailing vessels combined) will give an idea of the activity of the maratime operations of the port. In the year 1841 the numbers were:—Under 40 tons, 3,432; 40 to 60, 3,965; 60 to 80, 2,758; 80 to 100, 3,139; 100 to 150, 899; 150 to 200, 292; 200 to 250, 179; 250 to 300, 235; 300 to 350, 81; 350 to 400, 73; 400 to 450, 63; 450 to 500, 18; 500 to 600, 69; 600 to 700, 3. In 1876 the corresponding numbers were:—Under 40 tons, 3,579; 40 to 60, 2,822; 60 to 80, 2,110; 80 to 100, 1,436; 100 to 150, 852; 150 to 200, 392; 200 to 250, 515; 250 to 300, 402; 300 to 350, 430; 350 to 400, 491; 400 to 450, 428; 450 to 500, 416; 500 to 600, 239; 600 to 700, 67; 700 to 1,00, 140; 1,000 and upward, 267.

Grangemouth is the port of the eastern entrance of the Forth and Clyde canal, through which sea-going vessels of considerable burthen can pass to Glasgow or to the Frith of Clyde, and places beyond. The length of the canal to Glasgow is 29 miles, and its entire length 35 miles. The locks are 20 feet wide and 74 feet long, admitting vessels about 68½ feet in length, and little under 20 feet in breadth. The depth of water is fully 9 feet. The toll for passing on the canal is one penny per ton per mile for all articles except gunpowder. For the accommodation of vessels too large to enter the canal, capacious wet docks and other works have been provided, and there is now room for about 20,000 tons of shipping. The depth of water in the river Carron, between the port and the Frith of Forth, is about 20 feet at spring, and 15 feet at neap tides.

The chief railways which come to Glasgow are the Caledonian, the North British, and the Glasgow and South-Western. Their termini are far apart; but by means of the Union railway it is expected they will be able to communicate with one another; to a considerable extent they do so already. It may likewise be mentioned here that regular and frequent communication by steam packet is maintained with Liverpool, Cork, Dublin, Belfast, Derry, and the Western Highlands.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT, &c.

The "Lord Provost" is the designation of the chief magistrate o Glasgow, who is styled honourable; the subordinate functionaries are ten bailies, the dean of guild, and the deacon convener. There are 48 councillors—three for each of the 16 wards into which the city is divided, and the dean of guild and deacon convener, who are councillors by virtue of their offices. The principal officers connected with the corporation are the treasurer, chamberlain, town-clerks, master of works, bailie of the river and Frith of Clyde and his depute, bailie of Provan, procurator fiscal, and superintendent of streets and buildings. There are also two other bodies that exercise municipal privileges—the Merchants' House and the Trades' House. The dean of guild belongs to and is nominated by the former, and the convener to the latter house, by which he is appointed. As illustrative of the onerous and varied duties that devolve upon the municipal authorities, it may be stated that the corporation administers, solely or in part, 20 distinct trusts, that the united annual revenue of these is in excess of £400,000, and that the debts affecting these amount to more than three millions. Besides, they have either complete or partial control of the financial affairs connected with the numerous charitable foundations, schools, &c.

The police are under the direction of the honourable the lord provost, the magistrates, dean of guild, deacon convener, and eighteen commissioners chosen by the Town Council from among its own members. There are five police districts—a central district, and one for each quarter of the city. There are several courts held within the jurisdiction of the city, the chief of which are the following:—The Dean of Guild Court, held every alternate Thursday, at leven o'clock, takes cognisance of buildings and streets. The Sheriff Small Debt Court, for debts not exceeding £12, sits every Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday. The Justice of Peace Small Debt Court, for the Lower Ward of Lanarkshire, meets every Monday morning at ten, in the County Hall, to decide claims of £8 and under. The County Court sits every Wednesday for criminal offences, and Thursday for the recovery of small debts. The River Bailie Court sits every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and has marine jurisdiction between Glasgow Bridge and the Cloch, near the mouth of the Clyde. The Sheriff Ordinary Court sits every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, and the Burgh Ordinary Court every Friday, except during the vacation; both adjudicate on causes of any amount, however large.

The principal gaol, called the Northern Prison, which unfortunately it has been found necessary to enlarge, by the erection of a considerable compartment in the rear, is in Duke street. Debtors are confined in the west wing of this prison. The South Prison is in the rear of a commanding range of buildings, with its frontage towards the river, near the Victoria Bridge; there is a noble portico in the centre, composed of a double row of fluted columns. The two justiciary halls are in the centre, arranged with the requisite conveniences for a court of justice.

Glasgow returns three members to Parliament; the gentlemen now sitting are William Graham, Esq., Robert Dalglish, Esq., and George Anderson, Esq. The number of electors in 1867-68 was 18,761; in 1868-69, when the new Reform Act came into operation, 47,854; in 1869-70, 50,071; 1870-71, 49,966; 1871-72, 52,033; 1872-73, 53,111; 1873-4, 54,374; 1874-5, 56,727; 1875-6, 58,004; 1876-7, 60,570.

RELIGIOUS EDIFICES.

The Cathedral, or High Church, ornaments the north eastern termination of the city, and is one of very few ecclesiastical structures of ancient Scotland that has withstood the withering influence of time, the assaults of religious fury, and the sapping of neglect; it arose in the early part of the twelfth century. John Achaius, Bishop of Glasgow, was its founder, and John Murdo its supposed architect, the reigning king being David I., who witnessed its consecration. A stone above the door of the choir tells us, in Latin, that it was dedicated in 1197, St. Mungo or Kentigern being invoked as its tutelar patron. The figure of the edifice is cruciform. From the centre of the building rises a square embattled tower, of lofty octangular form, from which springs a spire. The length of the choir from east to west is 320 feet, and the breadth is 63. The height of the nave is 85 feet, and of the choir 90. The spire is 325 feet in height, and the circumference of the whole building 1,100 feet. One hundred and forty-seven pillars support the pile, and its windows number one hundred and fifty-seven. They vary in size, and some of them are in exquisite design. The building has lately undergone a process of restoration and embellishment, which bringing out all the beauty of the original plan, makes it, in some respects, one of the most richly decorated temples in Europe. The windows have been filled with stained glass according to a connected and harmonious plan. Those in the nave represent Old Testament subjects, according to the order of biblical chronology. Those in the choir represent subjects from the teaching of the Saviour. The work was chiefly executed in Munich. The cost of the east window, the finest of the series, was defrayed by parliamentary grant; that of the others by donors, who presented, or joined in presenting, separate windows, by way of family memorial. The Barony Church, contiguous to the cathedral, was built in 1798, from a design by Mr. Adam; the parish connected with this church is the largest in the city. The College, or Blackfriars Church, in High street, is a plain building, erected in 1699, on the site of a more ancient pile, called Blackfriars, which in 1666 was destroyed by a thunder storm. The Tron or Laigh Church, near the Cross, was erected in 1794, and is a plain building, surmounted by a cupola. A spire, built in 1637, stands between it and the street, having a clock and two bells. The name of the "Tron" was applied to this church from a part of its steeple having been used a weigh house. The clock faces of this church are lighted externally by gaslamps. Saint Andrew's Church, which stands in a square of the same name, was completed in 1756, at an expense of £15,000, and resembles that of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London. The architect was Mungo Nasmith. Saint Enoch's Church was erected in 1780, from designs by Mr. Jaffray. The front, on which is the spire, is decorated with a Doric portico, and has a light and handsome appearance; it stands in St. Enoch-square, and is a graceful terminating object from Buchanan street. Saint George's Church, on the west side of Buchanan street, fronting George street, is a handsome edifice, with three-quarter Doric columns in front, the whole height of the church. The steeple is crowned with a dome and obelisk, and is one hundred and sixty-two feet high. This church was finished at an expense of £9,000. Saint John's Church, in Græme street, is one of the largest places of worship in the city, affording sixteen hundred sittings; it was built during the residence here of Dr. Chalmers, whose pulpit oratory attracted large congregations. The Gorbals Church is situated at the east-end of Carlton place, fronting the river; it was completed in 1810, from designs by Mr. D. Hamilton. The clock of this church, from its great elevation, is seen to a great distance. Saint David's Church, at the end of Candlerigg street, is in the Gothic style, and was built from the designs of Messrs. Rickman and Hutchinson, of Birmingham. Circumstances have rendered it expedient to retain the shape and dimensions of the old church; it is built in the form of a cross, and is ornamented with a tower one hundred and twenty feet high. The vaulted cemetery beneath is one of the most complete in the kingdom. The cost of the church was £7,000, but the sepulchres in the crypt sold for £4,000. The patronage of the city churches belongs to the magistrates and town-council, with the exception of the inner High Church and the Barony, which pertain to the Crown. The patronage of Gorbals Church is with heritors or feuars, who purchased it from the College. The stipends of the city clergy are £425 per annum, that of the inner High Church considerably more. The pew sittings are let annually. Apart from the city churches, the revenues of which are drawn by the corporation who pay the salaries of the clergy, there are many churches in the city connected with the Establishment, which are self-supporting. Altogether there are 220 places of worship, affording accommodation to upwards of 200,000 persons, or considerably more than a third of the population. Fifty of them are connected with the Established Church, fifty-four with the Free Church, and forty-four with the United Presbyterian Church, while there are seven Episcopalian and thirteen Roman Catholic. Many of them are fine buildings; such as Park-and Sandyford Established Churches; the St. John's, St. Matthew's, St. George's, the College, and Kelvinside Free Churches; St. Vincent street, Claremont and Landsdowne United Presbyterian Churches; and Bath street and Trinity Congregational Churches. There are also fifty churches connected with other denominations.

CEMETERIES.—Close to the Cathedral is the Necropolis, one of the finest cemeteries in Britain. The approach to it is by a lofty bridge, which spans the valley through which the Molindinar runs. This bridge has rather appropriately been called the "Bridge of Sighs." The grounds, which are beautified with shrubberies, trees, flowers, and gravel walks, are also thickly adorned with monumental columns and statues tastefully executed and beautiful in design. Sighthill Cemetery, in the vicinage of St. Rollox, is of considerable extent, and is entered by a magnificent gateway, near to which is a handsome chapel. The southern Necropolis, Rutherglen, is also neat in its arrangement of walks and flowers, and it has also many monumental adornments. The Craighton Cemetery is situated on the Paisley road.

INSTITUTIONS FOR EDUCATION, LITERATURE, SCIENCE, AND THE ARTS.

THE UNIVERSITY.—The new University buildings are situated at Gilmore Hill, west end of Glasgow, and separated by the river Kelvin from Kelvingrove Park. They were commenced in April, 1867, and on the 8th October of the following year the foundation stone was laid by the Prince of Wales. They are from plans prepared by Sir Gilbert Scott, one of the most celebrated Gothic artists of the day. The style is that of the early period of the fourteenth century, as applied to collegiate structures, and, apart from the professors' houses, occupies a space of nearly four acres on the summit of the hill. They form an oblong rectangular pile of about 600 feet by 300 feet. On the south side of the buildings a stately tower rises to the height of 300 feet, and on the eastern side are the Medical and the Natural History Class-rooms, projecting from which is an octagonal building forming the Chemical and Anatomical Laboratories. In the northern section of the pile is the Library, founded prior to the Reformation, and containing upwards of 100,000 volumes, a Students' Reading Room, and the famous Hunterian Museum. This museum was bequeathed to the College by the celebrated Dr. Hunter, of London, who was a native of East Kilbride. The collection contains specimens of natural history, anatomical preparations, paintings, books, and medals, the medals being estimated at £30,000, and the whole collection cost Dr. Hunter £100,000. The pictures are all from great masters; amongst many others are Titian, Guido, Domenichino, Rubens, and Rembrandt. The University was founded by Turnbull, Roman Catholic Bishop of Glasgow, in 1450-51. At the Reformation, Archbishop James Beaton fled before the triumphant Presbyterians, carrying with him the charters and records, which he placed in the Scots' College at Paris. James VI. granted a new charter, and endowed the college with valuable property, since which it had risen to high reputation.

The history of the university is full of interest. Its foundation was by a bull issued by Pope Nicholas V. on the 7th of January, 1450-1. It is, therefore, the second oldest among the Universities of Scotland, St. Andrew's alone being before it. It was established under the name then given to such institutions—studium generale, and included all the usual faculties in addition to theology, canon and civil law, and the arts. At first the business of instruction was carried on in a building near the Cathedral, in a street now called the Rotten Row. In 1460 the first Lord Hamilton made a gift to the Corporation of a site, comprising a portion of that which the old college buildings occupied. Thither the teaching and residence of the members of the University were transferred in 1465. Its business was carried on with varied success till the time of the Reformation, when its revenues were thrown into utter confusion. The public spirit of the citizens was the means of providing for its restoration; and in 1574 renewed animation was given to its academic teaching by the advent, as Principal, of the famous Andrew Melville. His nephew reports that "there was na place in Europe comparable to Glasgow for guid letters during these yeirs, for a plentiful and chepe mercat of all kinds of languages, artes, and sciences." The Chairs of Natural Philosophy, Moral Philosophy, and Logic were founded in 1577, and Greek in 1581. The prosperity thus acquired was confirmed by the concession in 1577 of a charter granted by the Regent Morton, and usually known as the Nova Erectio of James VI., then in minority. This instrument was the foundation of many of the statutes by which the University is still governed. During the Protectorate its welfare was enhanced by the attendance of many nonconforming students from England; but at the Restoration, in 1660, it was deprived of a great portion of its resources, and three of its professorships fell into abeyance. Its fortunes rose again with the Revolution. The chair of Mathematics was founded in 1691, and during the next thirty years another half-dozen chairs were either revived or established, viz., Humanity, revived, 1706, although founded in 1637; Oriental Languages, 1709; Civil Law and Medicine, 1713; Church History, 1720; and Anatomy, 1718. A professorship of Astronomy was established in 1760; while during the present century a dozen new chairs have been founded—Natural History, 1807; Surgery and Midwifery, 1815; Chemistry, 1817; Botany, 1818; Materia Medica, 1831; Institutes of Medicine and Forensic Medicine, 1839; Civil Engineering, 1840; Conveyancing, English Language and Literature, and Biblical Criticism, 1861. Previous to the Universities Act of 1858, the business of the University was transacted in three distinct Courts, viz., the Senate, comprising the Rector, Dean, and all the Professors; the Faculty, containing the Principal and the Professors whose Chairs had been instituted in, or previous to, the last century; and the Comitia, comprehending the Rector, the Dean, the Principal, the Professors and the Matriculated Students of the University. But by the Universities Act of 1858, important changes were made in the constitution and government of the University, by which the distinction between the Faculty and the Senate was abolished and two new bodies, the University Court and the University Council, were instituted. The Council consists of the enrolled graduates of the University, and has only deliberative functions. The Court, consisting of seven members, viz., the Rector, the Principal, the Dean of Faculties, and four Assessors, nominated severally by the Chancellor, the Rector, the General Council of the University, and the Senatus Academicus, is empowered to review all decisions of the Senatus Academicus, to effect improvements in the internal arrangements, and to exercise other powers in the government of the University. The Senatus, consisting of the Principal and twenty-five Professors, is entrusted with the ordinary superintendence and regulation of the teaching and discipline of the University, and the administration of its properties and revenues.

Connected with the new University, and in a sense within its borders, is the Western Infirmary, which, though in an incomplete state, was opened in October, 1874. The cost is estimated at about £100,000.

Students of theology connected with the Free Church attend their own college—a handsome building in Lynedoch place, with a lofty campanile tower, whence a fine view of the city and surrounding district can be obtained. In addition to the prelection of four professors, who carry them through a strictly theological course, lectures are likewise delivered on natural science in its theological bearings. The Anderson University, in George street, was founded by the late John Anderson, professor of natural philosophy in the University of Glasgow, on the 7th of May, 1795, and the following year was incorporated by the magistrates and council. This University is placed under the superintendence of eighty-one trustees, and the Lord Provost is one of the inspecting visitors. The endowment consisted of a philosophical apparatus, a library, and a museum; but the prosperity of the institution has been so great that the trustees have purchased the extensive pile of buildings formerly occupied by the Grammar School, which were opened in 1828, and the numerous classes now receive a more extended education, including philosophy, science, and the arts. The museum is opened to the public from eleven to three, on the payment of sixpence. The High School, situate at the top of the hill behind the above University, is of an origin supposed to be coeval with the Cathedral, and within this Alma Mater several hundreds of youths acquire the elements of a liberal education. The Academy, in Elmbank row, is in some measure a rival institution to the above; both are very flourishing. They resemble the gymnasia of Germany, and afford an education intermediate between the ordinary school curriculum and the higher branches of academic learning. There are two normal schools, for training academies, one in connection with the Established and the other with the Free Church. An immense number of children are here taught, and there are about a hundred pupil teachers in each. The Government School of Art, in Sauchiehall street, is attended by between two and three thousand pupils. The city has no free library like that of Liverpool or Manchester, but the nucleus of such an institution is to be found in Stirling's Library, founded in 1791 by a merchant of the city, and enhanced by subsequent benefactions, till it now numbers over 30,000 volumes, which may be consulted in a commodious and comfortable reading room. The Mitchell Library, to which the public are admitted free of charge, occupies temporary premises in Ingram street, and was founded upon a bequest of the late Stephen Mitchell, Esq., of Glasgow. The Mechanics' Institution, Bath street, owes its origin to a dispute among the managers of the Anderson University, and it would be well if all quarrels terminated so beneficially. The useful class of persons that give name to this institution acquire from competent lectures that species of knowledge which in the first place elevates themselves, and will, ultimately, the nation to which they belong. But the institution has for some years been more devoted to the imparting of knowledge in various departments by means of classes than by lectures. The students enrolled for the session 1872-73 numbered about 1,200. Cowcaddens Mechanics' Institution, in Stewart street, contains nearly 3,000 volumes of carefully selected works. The Calton, Mile end, and Bridgeton Mechanics' Institution was instituted in 1838, for an object similar to that of the above, namely, improvement in the arts and sciences. Faculty of Physicians' and Surgeons' Hall is situated in St. Vincent street, within which the two incorporated bodies above named hold their meetings. The charter of their incorporation confers the right of granting diplomas, after examination, to students in medicine and surgery; and every person practising without such diploma in Glasgow, Renfrew, Dumbarton, Lanark, Kyle, Carrick, Ayr, and Cunningham, is liable to a fine of £3. 8s. 6d. for each offence. The members of faculty enjoy the privilege of exemption from many imposts and irksome duties. The freedom fine of admission into the faculty is £150, and licentiates within the city or suburbs pay £20, but those in the country £5. 5s.; for the diploma of each student £5. 5s. is required. Every candidate for a diploma must produce evidence that he has studied three winter sessions, either at an university or under resident members of the college of physicians and surgeons of Edinburgh, London, or Dublin, or under the members of the faculty of physicians and surgeons in Glasgow; and that during that period he has attended public lectures on anatomy, surgery, chemistry, materia medica, the theory and practice of medicine, and midwifery; and that he has attended one year at some hospital, and studied pharmacy in an apothecary's or surgeon's shop for six months, without which he cannot be taken on trial. Candidates who have served an apprenticeship of three or more years must produce similar evidence. The faculty contribute to a fund, founded in 1792, for the support of their widows and children. Faculty of Procurators' Hall, West George-street, near to St. George's Church, is a large building in the Venetian style, designed as a library and hall for the procurators. It forms one of the finest architectural embellishments of the city. The educational institutions of Glasgow are very numerous, and are supported with creditable spirit; they are enumerated under the head of endowed schools, and in the list of public buildings, at the end. But the Ragged School, which occupies a noble building in Rottenrow, merits special notice from its peculiar character and beneficial results; the pupils are mostly the offspring of dishonest and profligate parents, and the children are fed as well as instructed.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The Royal Infirmary, situate near the Cathedral, exhibits an exterior of considerable beauty, while the arrangements of the interior are skilfully adapted to their benevolent object. The building has been much enlarged since its first erection, the latest addition being for the reception of accident patients. The lowest story contains a laboratory, an apothecary's shop, hot and cold baths, and strong chambers for the temporary restraint of the insane. Beneath the dome is a spacious circular apartment, which is appropriated to surgical operations. The Royal Lunatic Asylum, at Gartnavel, two miles west of the city, is a noble edifice, admirably constructed for the recovery and comfort of its unhappy inmates. No appliance is wanting that can minister to the attainment of these objects; a portion of the establishment is appropriated to pauper inmates. The Town's Hospital for paupers, in the Parliamentary road, is a building strikingly original in its design. The centre is octagonal, with four wings diverging from it. The wings contain rows of commodious chambers, and a long gallery for exercise. This structure was erected as an asylum for lunatics, but these have been removed to the Royal Lunatic Asylum, at Gartnavel. The Poor House for the extensive Barony parish, at Barnhill, is a very capacious asylum for the children of poverty, and well adapted by its cleanliness, ventilation, and position, to mitigate the ills of their condition. The Govan Parochial Board have also erected at Merryflats the finest asylum for the poor in Scotland. The Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Prospect bank, Queen's Park, possesses every adaptation for its interesting object. The Asylum for the Blind in Castle street is capable of accommodating more than one hundred inmates, who are advantageously employed in the fabrication of various useful articles; and the recent invention of printing in relief, by enabling the blind to read manipular or tangible letters, has given a most interesting facility to their education. The Magdalen Asylum entered into possession of its new buildings at Maryhill about ten years ago. The accommodations are in every way suited to the purpose for which it was built. Indeed, eminent philanthropists from all parts of the world declare that the Asylum is the finest they have seen. The benefactors of the institution have the satisfaction of believing that many of its female inmates have subsequently become permanently worthy of the protection that has been afforded them. The Mossbank Industrial Schools is an institution situated at Hogganfield, about two miles to the east of Glasgow. Its object is to lay hold of and educate neglected and destitute children, who, having no parents, or worse, whose parents, living themselves in vice and profligacy, leave their offspring to grow up in ignorance or become vagrants and criminals. It accommodates about 400 boys, who are taught trades, and about 200 girls, who are trained to domestic duties. The foundation stone was laid on the 26th August, 1868, with great ceremony, by the Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, K.T., Grand Master Mason of Scotland, assisted by the Right Hon. the Earl of Haddington and other officials of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. Externally the structure is of good red brick, enlivened by bands and ornamental work in white and black brick. The structure has a homely and comfortable aspect, and reminds one of the beautiful old English almshouses or hospitals. The Lock Hospital, in Rotten row, was formed in 1805 for the cure of unfortunate females. Hutcheson's Hospital, in Ingram street, was formed by the two brothers George and Thomas Hutcheson, between the years 1639 and 1641. The former amassed a large fortune as a writer and notary, although his charges were so moderate that it is stated he would never charge more than sixteen pennies Scots for the writing of a bond, however large the amount; the latter brother was a preacher. From the original endowment and subsequent benefactions, the trustees are enabled to appropriate £3,000 per annum to pensions for aged men and women, and for the education and partial clothing of poor boys, together with £3 per annum to the latter. The present building, erected in 1803, is ornamented with an octagonal spire 156 feet high. The constitution of the hospital is much more liberal in consequence of an act obtained in 1872. The Eye Infirmary, 76 Charlotte street, and 95 Greendyke street, is liberally supported, and has been successful in its operations. The House of Refuge and the Night Asylum, in North Frederick street, are large and well managed institutions. In addition to the benevolent institutions already mentioned, there exist many others, which shed a lustre on the memories of departed citizens of Glasgow Mitchell's Mortification, made in 1729, yields £100 per annum to decayed burgesses and their families; and Tennant's, made in 1741, renders to three widows 80 merks, or £4 18s. 10d. the remainder devolving on two of the General Session Charity Schools. Wilson's Charity, founded 1778, bestows education and clothing on forty-eight poor boys; and Millar's, since 1790, has educated sixty girls annually, at a yearly expense of £300. Natives of every county in Scotland have found a home in Glasgow; and there is scarcely one that does not give its name to a society composed of such persons, united together for the two-fold objects of cherishing home memories and aiding persons from the same district who may have fallen into distress.

Although not eleemosynary in their character, this seems the place to advert to the cheap dining halls which have been established here, and have supplied a model for other towns throughout the kingdom. The distinguishing characteristic of the scheme principally was that every article sold—a cup of tea or coffee, a basin of broth, or whatever it was—should be charged a penny. There are now a central depot where the cooking is done, and nearly thirty branch establishments where the viands are retailed. In any one of these a good, wholesome, and abundant dinner—a dinner of three courses and dessert—can be had for fourpence halfpenny.

RELIGIOUS AND MORAL SOCIETIES.

Missionary effort in Glasgow commands, as it deserves, an extensive and encouraging sympathy, and in connection with the Religious Tract and Book Society, which we gladly give a brief notice of, will, it is trusted, continue to prosper. The object of the Religious Tract and Book Society is to promote the diffusion of a healthy religious literature, especially among the humbler classes of the people, by the gratuitous distribution of tracts, and the offering by the system of colporteurage, of periodicals of a sound religious character for sale, at the houses of those who might not be attracted to them at the ordinary book shops. Other societies for religious objects are also very numerous, and are liberally supported. The Glasgow Association for establishing Lodging Houses for the Working Classes, is an institution "sign of the Times" we live in. The Association have purchased several plots of ground in airy localities, whereon to erect lodging places, that shall be spacious, cleanly, and well ventilated; and these will be let at very low charges. There are also several Bible Societies and Sabbath School Societies besides the Young Men's Christian Association, a numerous body, organised after the society in London, bearing the same name, and in connection with which a course of lectures is delivered every winter by eminent men. The Abstainers' Union is a body which also deserves mention. Organised with the view of abating the vice of drunkenness, the directors seek to wean men from the tavern and the tap-room by holding out to them other amusements. In winter they have concerts every Saturday evening in the City Hall, which is invariably thronged.

PLACES OF AMUSEMENT.

The Theatre Royal is in Cowcaddens. Externally there are no architectural features noteworthy, but the interior is sumptuously fitted up, and is really strikingly effective. The Prince of Wales Theatre is also located in Cowcaddens, near the Theatre Royal. It is built somewhat upon the plan of the Gaiety, London, and is as commodious and comfortable a place of theatrical entertainment as is to be found upon the north side of the Tweed. The Gaiety Theatre is located in Sauchiehall street. The Assembly and Concert Rooms were erected in 1796, and constitute a very elegant embellishment to Ingram street; the wings were added in 1807. The entire building has been alienated from its original purpose, and is now occupied by the Athenæum Library and Reading Room. The Royal Botanic Gardens, Great Western road, are highly deserving of inspection. The hothouses are extensive and well supplied with specimens of the floral and other vegetable productions of every tropical clime, including the far-famed Victoria Regia, or water lily. Within this enclosure flourish more than 12,000 species or varieties of trees and shrubs, inclusive of coffee, cotton, tea, sugar, chocolate, cocoa, date, cinnamon, nutmeg, clove, and bread fruit. Strangers are admitted on payment of sixpence, and the working classes free five days during the Fair week every year. There are several music saloons that are very attractive, conducted upon the plan of affording refreshments, enlivened by gratuitous amusement. There are three music halls, viz., the Royal, in Dunlop street; the Scotia, in Stockwell street; and the Britannia, in Trongate.

MARKETS AND FAIRS.—The chief market day for corn and provisions is Wednesday. There are five fairs in the year, viz., the second Wednesday in January, Thursday before Easter, last Monday in May, the whole of the second week in July, and the first Wednesday after Martinmas.

The public slaughter-houses are in Scott street, Milton street, and Moore street, Gallowgate. The last named is very much the largest in Scotland—perhaps in the kingdom. It is situated adjoining the cattle market; it may be said that the two are one and the same.

According to the census returns, presented to Government in 1861, the city of Glasgow and its suburbs contained a population of 205,128 males and 231,304 females; total, 436,432. In 1871 the numbers were—males, 265,771; females, 281,767; total, 547,538; showing an increase in the ten years of 111,106.

NEIGHBOURING BURGHS.

GOVAN, at present the eighth burgh (Royal, Parliamentary, or otherwise) in Scotland in respect of population or rental, is beautifully situated on the south bank of the Clyde, about three miles west of Glasgow. Though outside the municipal boundaries of the city, the burgh is now almost one with it, there being a continuous line of houses connecting the two. It has little to interest the visitor beyond its extensive shipbuilding yards, which for the construction of iron vessels have earned a world-wide reputation. It has numerous public works, including two silk mills, the oldest of which, situated at the side of the river, and belonging to Morris Pollock & Son, was the first in which silks were spun in Scotland. There are nineteen places of worship within the burgh; six of these are connected with the Church of England, four United Presbyterian, four Free, one Episcopalian, one Baptist, one Congregationalist, one Evangelical Union, and one Roman Catholic. The parish church is picturesquely situated near the river, and is surmounted by a handsome spire, in imitation of that of Stratford-on-Avon. There are also a handsome academy and eight public schools, most of them recently erected. The burgh contains an area of 1,100 acres, and by the census returns for 1871 had a population of 19,200, since which period it has greatly increased, and is now estimated at about 45,000.

The burgh of PARTICK, opposite Govan on the other side of the river, is also a continuation of Glasgow. It is irregularly built, but environed by agreeable scenery. There are several mills and factories and boat-building yards in the place. It contains three Established, two Free and three United Presbyterian churches, and several schools. The population has increased with extraordinary rapidity. In 1851 it was 6,670; in 1861, 14,861; and in 1871 it was 33,904.

MARYHILL, a burgh three miles north-west from Glasgow, is situated on the banks of the river Kelvin, which stream is crossed by the Forth and Clyde canal, by the medium of a noble aqueduct of lofty altitude; the village contains one Established, one Free, one United Presbyterian Church, and a Roman Catholic chapel. There are print works, iron foundries, bleach works, and glass works. The population in 1861 was 5,225, and in 1871, 7,945.

The following burghs are contiguous to and may be said to form part of Glasgow, although their municipal governments are independent. These are HILLHEAD, on the north side of the river, KINNING PARK, and CROSSHILL on the south side of the river. They are all flourishing burghs, the greater number of their inhabitants being those whose places of business are in the city.

KINNING PARK, situated to the south-west of Glasgow, was created a burgh in September, 1871. It contains a population of 7,995. It has one Established, one Methodist, and one Congregational church.

CROSSHILL District, near the Queen's Park, including the burgh, has a population of 7,500. The burgh was formed in August, 1871, It has one United Presbyterian church, one Established church, one Free church, and one Methodist church.

HILLHEAD, situated close to the University, was created a burgh three years ago; it has a population of 3,718. The houses are, almost without exception, the dwellings of the wealthier middle classes.

SPRINGBURN, two and a half miles; PARKHEAD, two miles; TOLLCROSS, three miles; and SHETTLESTON, three and a half miles—are villages situated the above distances from Glasgow, and contain works of various kinds of manufactures, giving employment to a large number of inhabitants.
